Awtokism

Awtokism, also known as anti-mythicalism, anti-mythicism or anti-mythism, is [illegible] persecution of everything that is mythical, spiritual, supernatural or even non-human and extra-scientific. The term awtokismo is derived from the acronym AWTOK, which means “Always Watching the Other Kind”, which is a hypothetical organization that would be responsible for hunting myths and that today is used to refer to any type of anti-mythical organization or antimitics.
The term awtokism, was coined by William Ariel Mounter, while he denounced video games and the media for doing anti-mythical propaganda and attacking mythics, the main symbol of which is davidjaffism (also referred to as jaffism or jaffianism) which is an awtokist aspect that aims the attack on divine myths, mainly gods, that in the beginning davidjaffismo was used to refer only to the games of the God of War franchise, created by David Jaffe, but that now, is used to refer to any type of media and games that are focused on attacking divine myths and gods.
On the economic issue, awtokism is characterized by defending a neoliberal economy or even a state capitalist economy, even defending a regulated market.
On the political issue, awtokism is characterized by being authoritarian, defending that there is only one awtokist party or even a security committee / council that takes over the country, and there are also aspects that defend that democracy and elections still exist, making awtokism be a kind of neo-conservative fascism.
Awtokism is considered to be the ideological form of antimiticalism, with antimiticalism being used to refer to anything anti-mythical, while awtokism is used to refer to the ideological and political part of anti-mythism.
